It is a molded velocity stack with an option of variable stack length (for engine torque) with an included cutting jig and choice of choice of straight or 30-degree offset mounts. The name is from the mid-1970s when Dean Russell leased a bay to work on Alfas at Caesar's Trail Auto, a general auto repair shop.
You can get to Dean best by sending an email (for some reason he's slow to answer with an oily transmission case in his hands). Trail Auto is an Alfa-only repair facility, plus Dean keeps yards of parts cars plus three warehouses of new and used parts. Parts, engine and transmission rebuilds, vintage restoration, race prep, Spica tuning. The bays are always busy with Alfas brought from all over. Look for the old gas station full of Alfas.
